DECLARATION OF DUY HO IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS' BRIEF IN RESPONSE TO THE COURT'S QUESTIONS
REGARDING PRESERVATION OF CHAT MESSAGES

Judge: Hon. James Donato

DECLARATION OF DUY HO

I, Duy Ho, declare as follows:

1. I am a Project Manager on the Legal Discovery team at Google. I make this declaration based on personal knowledge. If called as a witness, I could testify competently to the facts stated herein.

2. My job-specific responsibilities include managing the technical aspects of discovery in connection with litigation matters. In connection with this matter, I have managed vendor operation of the document review database, overseen processes for producing large datasets, and assisted with analysis of review and production metrics. As a member of the Legal Discovery team supporting this case, I have reviewed the list of custodians whose documents the parties have agreed will be searched in this case (“agreed-upon custodians”), including the date ranges that the parties have agreed will be applied to those searches.

Collection of Preserved Chats for Each Legal Hold Notice Recipient

3. In connection with this declaration, my team collected all preserved chat messages for all employees on legal hold for this matter, from the date of the initial legal hold notice, September 11, 2020, to the present. I have been asked to analyze those chats and, working with members of my team, I have prepared a chart identifying the number of Google chats that were preserved for each employee on legal hold, and to the extent possible, to identify the chat as (1) from a threaded room, with history always on (a feature of the product) and is thus automatically preserved in connection with a legal hold; or (2) a chat that requires an individual user to personally elect to enable “history on” to preserve the conversation. Counsel further requested that I include the approximate date of the first and last preserved Google chat, for both threaded chats and one-on-one or group chats, for each person.

4. Attached as Exhibit A is a table showing this information. Specifically, for each employee on legal hold for this matter, the table shows in Columns A and D the number of “One-to-One or Group” chats and “Threaded” chats, respectively, that Google has preserved, and in the remaining columns the approximate dates of the first and last preserved chats for each category. The table is also divided into three groups of employees on legal hold: (1) those who

1 were agreed-upon custodians with an agreed-upon date range for searching custodial documents
2 that post-dated the filing of the initial lawsuit in this case (August 13, 2020) (“post-complaint
3 custodians”); (2) those who were agreed-upon custodians with an agreed-upon date range for
4 searching custodial documents that pre-dated the lawsuit’s filing; and (3) all other employees on
5 legal hold for this matter (i.e., non-custodians). Having reviewed some of the collected chats and
6 our external-facing materials describing how chats are stored, I understand that each “chat”
7 collected and shown in this table represents a snapshot of a chat conversation (either bound by 8 time or by a number of individual messages sent close in time to each other).

9 Produced Documents for Post-Complaint Custodians

10 5. I have also prepared a separate table, attached as Exhibit B, showing the total
11 number of documents that Google has produced for each of the post-complaint custodians (i.e., the 12 agreed-upon custodians with an agreed-upon date range for searching custodial documents that 13 post-dated the filing of the initial lawsuit in this case). This table shows the number of 14 documents—including emails, slide decks, and other documents—dated after the filing of the 15 initial lawsuit in this case. The numbers in this table accurately show what I am able to see in our 16 document management database. Based on our document database, Google has produced 93,199
17 unique custodial documents—or 1,263,688 pages—for these post-complaint custodians in 18 particular.

19 Produced Documents on New Developments After Filing of Complaint

20 6. Finally, I have also analyzed our production to determine the number of documents
21 that Google has produced, at Plaintiffs’ request, relating to new developments arising after the 22 filing of the initial lawsuit on August 13, 2020. For this analysis, Google’s counsel provided to
23 me a list of new developments that prompted a production request by Plaintiffs, and the agreed-
24 upon search terms for those developments. I then used those search terms and applied them to the 25 universe of post-complaint custodians’ documents dated after the filing of the initial complaint, to 26 determine the number of produced documents that relate to those new developments.

27 7. After running this analysis, I found that Google produced, for example: 28,322
28 documents relating to its extension of the compliance deadline for the Play payments policy;

1 17,183 documents relating to Google's announcement of its user choice billing pilot program;
2 8,942 documents relating to Google's announcement and consideration of service fee reductions;
3 2,744 documents relating to a specific action Google took in connection with a Korean app
4 developer in Korea; and 2,500 documents relating to Google's release of a new version of
5 Android.¹

6 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States that the foregoing is 7 true and correct.

8 Executed on this 24th day of January, 2023, in California.
